The Evangelistic Field Opens Again. At the close of our work in Ipava, as our older son was already in school at Evanston, and the younger was ready to go, we thought best that their mother should keep house there, and care for her boys. So I spent the fifth year after my return to the pastorate, alone at Trivoli, 111. Great changes had come, and many so dear to me on this territory years before, were gone. Souls were saved here and there, but they were few and far between. The Lord let me know the effects of His calling one way, and I going another, and from first to last I was under the rod. Before the year was half way through, I told Him if He would let me live to its close, He should never have any more trouble with me about being an evangelist! I have considered it as the only lost year of the fifty-six given to the ministry, though great lessons came out of it. Some time before conference the Lord asked me, while praying for my youngest boy: Will you give him up to Me in death I did not know the full meaning of the question, but answered in the affirmative. Later I was summoned by a telegram to his bedside, with a clear memory of this question and its answer. He was visiting friends in Brimfield, during school vacation, and had been...
