GIDDINESS OWHAT a thing is man! how far from power, From settled peace and rest! He is some twenty several men at least Each several hour. One while he counts of heaven, as of his treasure: But then a thought creeps in, And calls him coward, who for fear of sin Will lose a pleasure. Now he will fight it out, and to the wars; Now eat his bread in peace, And snudge in quiet: now he scorns increase; Now all day spares. He builds a house, which quickly down must go, As if a whirlwind blew And crushed the building: and tis partly true, His mind is so. O what a sight were man, if his attires Did alter with his mind; And, like...

Reviews

This publication may be really worth a go through, and a lot better than other. It really is writter in simple terms and never difficult to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
